

Contents

Introduction to the Progymnasmata	4	Lesson 19	124
Introduction to the Narrative Stage.....	5	The King and Two Servants
Grading Guidelines	7	Lesson 20	130
		The Pen and the Inkstand
Lessons		Appendix
Lesson 1	8	Definition of Terms	143
The Rose		Figures of Description With Examples	144
Lesson 2	14
Chico and the Crane
Lesson 3	20
Elijah and the Widow
Lesson 4	26
Giufà – Eat, My Clothes!
Lesson 5	32
The Song of the Vineyard
Lesson 6	38
Giufà and the Judge
Lesson 7	44
Elijah and the Prophets of Baal
Lesson 8	50
Elijah and the Burning Sacrifice
Lesson 9	56
Nathan and David
Lesson 10	62
The Frog Prince
Lesson 11	70
Elisha and the Widow's Jars
Lesson 12	76
Conrad von Tannenberg
Lesson 13	84
Latona and the Rustics
Lesson 14	92
A Vine out of Egypt
Lesson 15	98
The Sower
Lesson 16	104
The Good Samaritan
Lesson 17	110
Baucis and Philemon
Lesson 18	118
The Foolish Rich Man

The Rose

Read the Narrative aloud.

Whoever admires the rose for its beauty should consider what befell Aphrodite. The goddess was in love with Adonis; Ares was in love with her: the goddess was to Adonis what Ares was to Aphrodite. God was in love with goddess; goddess was in pursuit of mortal. The longing was the same, though the kind differed. But out of jealousy Ares wanted to kill Adonis, thinking that Adonis' death would put an end to love. So Ares struck Adonis. The goddess, learning of what was done, hurried to his defense; and in her haste she ran into a rosebush and caught herself on its thorns. The flat of her foot was pierced, and the blood, which flowed from the wound, changed the color of the rose to its own appearance. And the rose that at first was white came to be what we see today.

Nine Components of Narrative Invention

Identify the who, what, when, where, how, and why of the narrative. Give examples of Recognition, Reversal, and Suffering.

1. Recognition _____
2. Reversal _____
3. Suffering _____
4. Agents _____
5. Action _____
6. Time _____
7. Place _____
8. Manner _____
9. Cause _____

Variations: Part I

Give two synonyms for the bold words in each sentence. Then vary the sentence in three ways.

1. "Ares wanted to kill Adonis to gain love."

_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

2. "The goddess in haste hurried to his defense."

_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

Paraphrases

Paraphrase the Narrative using your Outline and Variations.
Follow the special directions for each Paraphrase.

1. Change the viewpoint of the narrative, and use an example of each of these figures of description:

Ethopoeia	a description and portrayal of a character; e.g., "the cocky overconfident ant"
Geographia	a vivid representation of the earth; e.g., "the lush garden of flowers and trees"

Variations: Part 2

Give two synonyms for the bold words in each sentence. Then vary the sentence in three ways.

1. "The flat of her foot was pierced, and the blood flowed from the wound."

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

2. "The color of the rose changed from white and came to be what we see today."

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

Final Draft

On a separate sheet of paper, rewrite Paraphrase 2, and invert the sequence of events.
Use the original Narrative to correct mistakes and omissions in this Final Draft.