GRADING

The following are suggestions only. Feel free to modify them according to the needs of your student(s).

Vocabulary: 1 point per part of the dictionary entry. Thus, a noun could have up to three points (nominative singular, genitive singular, and gender) and a verb up to four points (one per principal part).

Grammar Questions: 1 point for each blank line, space in a chart, or item in a list. A particularly long answer could be worth multiple points at the teacher's discretion.

Declensions/Conjugations: 1 point per form.

Translation: 0.5 points per word in the final translation.

Bonus: 1-2 points depending on length.

Final Grade: Divide the points earned by the points possible, then multiply that answer by 100 to get a percentage out of 100. For example:

$$\begin{aligned} 27 \text{ points earned} / 31 \text{ points possible} &= .87 \\ .87 \times 100 &= 87\% \end{aligned}$$
